Inverness Graham Announces Three Promotions

Philadelphia, PA, June 19, 2017 – Inverness Graham, a private investment firm focused on high growth, innovative manufacturing, technology and services companies, today announced three promotions – Chris Frystock to Vice President, Matt Moran to Principal, Head of Business Development and Sean Dougherty to Vice President, Executive Partnerships & Direct Sourcing.

Commenting on the promotions, Ken Graham, Senior Managing Principal, said, “We pride ourselves on our promote from within approach and continuous improvement culture. Chris, Matt, and Sean have all demonstrated the skills and character we look for at Inverness Graham and it gives me great pleasure to reward their hard work. These promotions are well-deserved and I look forward to seeing their continued contributions with their new responsibilities on the team.”

Since joining Inverness Graham in 2011, Chris has been responsible for evaluating new investment opportunities, coordinating financial and operational due diligence, negotiating acquisition and financing transactions, and working with management teams post-acquisition. Prior to joining Inverness Graham, Chris worked as an Investment Banking Analyst at Boenning & Scattergood, Inc.

Matt joined Inverness Graham in 2010. He is responsible for managing the business development function of the firm, which includes sourcing investment opportunities. Prior to joining Inverness Graham, Matt was an analyst at Laurel Capital Partners, a growth equity and micro-cap buyout firm.

In 2014, Sean joined Inverness Graham to manage Inverness Graham’s relationships with Industry Executive Partners, as well as lead the direct sourcing effort. Prior to joining Inverness Graham, Sean was an Assistant Vice President in the New York City office of FBR Capital Markets, a middle-market investment bank where he worked in Institutional Equity Sales & Trading. Prior to FBR, Sean was an Associate at UBS.
