Inverness Graham Announces Sale of SupplyLogic WebbMason

Wayne, PA, October 5, 2022 – Inverness Graham, a private investment firm that targets innovative technology-enabled manufacturing, service and software companies, is pleased to announce the sale of SupplyLogic WebbMason, Inc. to Gallant Capital Partners. SupplyLogic WebbMason (now known as SLWM) provides a fully outsourced, end-to-end managed service offering that streamlines the procurement, fulfillment and execution of marketing categories such as print, digital & creative, point of sale and branded merchandise. The company’s customers operate in a diverse array of industries including restaurant-hospitality, consumer staples and financial services. Inverness Graham originally acquired DataSource, Inc., an outsourced print supply chain management company, in 2012 and transformed the company into a comprehensive marketing execution solutions provider frequently delivered via a managed services offering through a series of mergers, ultimately forming SLWM.

“We are thrilled for the outstanding leadership team at SLWM,” stated Trey Sykes, Managing Principal at Inverness Graham. “The company is now a market leader with an exceptional and unique service offering and SLWM is poised to continue scaling and meeting the needs of more category-leading brands across multiple industries.”

“I am excited for SLWM to begin its next chapter,” added Phil Schoonmaker, CEO at SLWM. “Over the past decade Inverness Graham has been a value-added partner, strategically transforming the company and helping to lay the foundations for long-term sustainable growth. Our capabilities are truly differentiated, and we will continue to deliver for our customers in innovative ways.”

Though financial terms were not disclosed, Moelis & Company and Faegre Drinker Biddle & Reath LLP advised Inverness Graham.
